

Bangalore & her

Dr. Arindam Das
Assistant Professor
Alliance University

The plane took off from CCU
White-collared, in search of ontological heaviness I flew

Bluer and greener was BLR
Smarter and more, more sexy

The lonely me searched for passion
Drifting from passion to passion

Passions not for girls of un#tagged nonchalance
Neither of the bombat IT life (Macha, chumma I hated STEM)
Nor of florin that winked and flirted with me
Not of crafted wildlife Kādu
Or of Saturday Skyee, ShakesBierre or B-Hive

But for the modern Christy-red patior
Suffering loneliness
Bearing loneliness
Enduring loneliness

“I had to leave a little girl in Asansol-town”

Yet, adjust mari, adjust mari, adjust mari!
